

POSED IN ROKEBY VENUS COSTUME, BUT INSISTS HUSBAND CONSENTED

Mrs. Briggs Can't See That It Answers Her Separation Plea, as She's a Model.

A statement that Mrs. Charlotte Davis Porter-Briggs took off everything but her sweet expression and posed before a camera as "Innocence" is made by Victor Harvey Briggs, manager of a bookbindery, in one reason why Mrs. Briggs shouldn't be given the decree of separation for which she is now suing in the Supreme Court.

Besides, says Mr. Briggs in his answer, she has another husband living, or did have when she became Mrs. Briggs, and he thinks, if she wants a decree of separation from anybody, she ought to look up that other husband and sue him. Mr. Briggs, besides all this, countered with a plea for annulment of his marriage on account of that other marriage of Mrs. Briggs to Harold Porter in Buffalo in 1904.

Mrs. Briggs said to-day at her home, No. 126 Riverside Drive, that it was absurd for her husband to say she posed like Lady Godiva, September Morn, the Rokeby Venus and other famous females without his knowledge or consent.

"Why, I have been an artist model since I won a $1,000 prize in a Cleveland beauty contest," she said to-day, "and Mr. Briggs knew all about my posing for 'Innocence' as well as other pictures. Why, posing is my profession."

She said that she was only fourteen when Harold Porter pulled her out of the water and saved her life at Crystal Beach, Canada, and thus began a romance culminating in their marriage. Harold's father was displeased, as she went to Cleveland and got a divorce. Mr. Briggs contends this divorce was invalid.

Afternoon Gowns of Crinkle Crepe de Chine, Special at $23.74

In tango, linden green, seal brown, navy and black crinkle crepe de chine the model illustrated is extremely modest. Sheer crepe embroidered batiste, with "battlement" edges, makes the deep pointed collar, the soft surplice vestee and the cuffs. Under the draped fronts of the blouse bodice a broad girle of bright colored satin adds a clever touch of style; at the back a square coat tail panel falls over the puffed pannier draperies of the skirt.

Afternoon Gowns of Satin Charmeuse, $28.75

In navy, black, and Japanese blue, gracefully draped Dresses, girdled with broad more ribbon and fastened with ornamental frogs of the charmeuse.

Dainty collar and chemisette are of fine white net, hand-embroidered, and all seams are heavily corded. The pannier effect is featured in the draped skirt.

Smart Coat Dresses of Silk-and-Wool Crepon, $19.74

In black, navy and cedar green, these very pretty Dresses have collar and girle of taffeta silk and are finished with soft frills of creamy embroidered net lace.

In the flaring peplum two tiny slashed pockets are introduced, while a cluster of silk roses adds another effective touch of style to the girle.

Dainty Novelties in Newest Lingerie, 99c

Charming new models in such a diversity of effects that we can but hint at the comprehensiveness of the assortments which Macy's offer at this modest price. Garments of equal quality and daintiness are sold elsewhere at $1.25 and $1.50.

We like that definition of SERVICE given in the Standard Dictionary—

"To promote the interests of; to contribute to the well-being of; to aid by kind or useful offices."

There is the Macy attitude toward the public. We regard this Store as an important Public Service institution. There is nothing we will not do, if it is within the very broad bounds of reason and possibility, to serve you to your entire satisfaction.

In thousands of ways we can serve you to your greater advantage than any other Store in New York.

For instance:—Macy's is the only large Store that both buys and sells for cash only—that is, Macy's buys at lowest prices under most favorable circumstances, and sells at lowest prices because loss and expense of charge accounts are eliminated.

And this is only one feature of Macy Service.

Copies of Paris Hats Charming "Watteau" Effects

The radical changes in the lines of the new season's Millinery have resulted in a wealth of picturesque shapes.

Notable among them are the "Watteau" effects, high at the back and trimmed beneath the brim, in a diversity of styles all very becoming and youthful.

Macy's Trimmed Hats are undoubtedly the most attractive in the City, for while we compete most successfully with the exclusive specialty shops as to style and fine materials, Macy's Hats are offered at prices much below those of any other store.

We make a specialty of copying our Paris models. The Hat illustrated is a copy of a "MAISON LEWIS" model from Paris; it is made of the new Liseré braid in black with contrasting colored top, trimmed with tiny flowers and ribbons.

The Original Hat cost us $50. The Copy we sell at $17.89

Just arrived—the New Styles in Tailored Hats—from Victor Jay, London. Smart new "Trotteur Hats" from this leading English house, famous for their clever styles, at prices ranging from $9.99 to $15.99.

Women's Tailored Suits of Crepe Ottoman Special $21.74

In Copenhagen, navy, brown, rose and black Crepe Ottoman of soft, fine texture, the Suit illustrated is exceptionally desirable for mid-season or early Spring wear.

Adapted from a CALLOT model, the short blouse coat is cut on loose lines and fastened with corded ornaments. Sailor cravat and collar are of the lustrous peau de cygne, with which the coat is lined.

A curving peplum, inset at the sides of the paneled front, flares out over the skirt folds in the prevailing fashion.

Third Floor, Broadway.

Black Moire Silk Pouch Bags, (ea.) $2.94

Made of fine black moire silk in the fashionable "pouch" shape, finished at the bottom with a tasse; wide ribbon handle fitted with two slides. Frames of German silver, gilt or gun-metal; lined with fine corded silk in a choice of colors.

A round beveled mirror is conveniently suspended from a ribbon inside the Bag, and the neat envelope purse of black moire is attached to the Bag by a fine chain for safety.

A very stylish Bag which would sell everywhere at a much higher price. Main Floor, 34th St. Side.
